Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 to 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wivell.

Wivell teaches clear emulsion compositions that contain an aqueous phase and an oily phase; the aqueous phase containing a polyhydric alcohol and the oily phase containing a siloxane. Column the Summary of the Invention. The component (iii) meets the claimed surfactant. See for instance Tables I to IV which show various compositions containing various diols within the breadth of claim 2. Note too column 2, lines 50 to 55. The continuous phase includes water in amounts meeting claim 4. The surfactant and the silicone in these examples meet the limitation of claims 5 and 6. In this manner Wivell anticipates each of these claims.

3. The remaining references are cited as being of general interest. Neither Jones et al. nor Murray et al. qualify as prior art against the instant claims due to their filing date and the fact that they have the same assignee as the instant application. Also note that the Examiner has established that these claims are drawn to patentably distinct subject matter in view of the restriction requirement in 09/518,071.
